Description

Interesting pair of Louis XV - Louis XVI transition style bronze sconces from the 19th century. Each has three curved arms of light with rich foliage decoration. Binets in good condition and original bobeche. The lower part which is applied to the wall is shaped like a ribboned knot enclosing a spray of flowers. Hanging system at the rear using an original notch. Gilded bronze which still has a beautiful shine on the flat parts of the knots. Scattered oxidations of the metal, which can also be called patina of time, it's a matter of taste... I present these wall lights to you in the condition of a find which I consider to be in good condition. No restoration, they seem to have never been electrified. Delivery: EUR20 for mainland France.
