Description

Bonbonniere or jam maker in blown glass in a gadroon mold, the cup slightly raised by a glass net worked with pliers, the grip of the spiraloid lid. France, Venice style, around the middle of the 18th century. Cane mark visible in the center under the cut. Item in good condition, without shock, without cracks. The material feels "greasy", very shiny, with a few air bubbles. We report localized "scratches" on a small part of the cover, perceptible in the photographs. Dimensions: height 10.5 cm, diameter 15 cm.
