Description

We are delighted to present to you an exceptional artistic piece: a religious painting dating from the 18th century, representing the Virgin and Child. This work is much more than a simple painting; it is a testimony to the faith, spirituality and art of this period.

This painting is a valuable example of religious art from the 18th century, a time when faith and devotion were at the heart of daily life. The Virgin Mary holding the Child Jesus is one of the most iconic representations in Christian art, evoking grace, maternal tenderness and devotion. It was probably intended to adorn a place of worship or a space dedicated to prayer, as it is loaded with religious symbolism and spiritual significance. Despite its age, this painting is in an excellent state of conservation, retaining its
