he exhibited drawings at the Toulouse salon, including one published in the Revue Illustrée. As a theater designer, humorist and caricaturist, Conrad collaborated on numerous periodicals, including Journal des voyages, Touche à tout, Le Frou-frou, Don Juan (1896-1898), Mon journal (1904-1908), La Vie illustrée, Parisiana, etc. He illustrates postcards for the hundred collection. He produced compositions for the covers of numerous popular novels and booklets published by Hachette and Fayard, including the series "La Vie d'aventures" and that of "Toto Fouinard" for Jules Lermina. There are also a few advertising posters (Saxoléines, Les Gueules cecies, Motoculteurs Somua). Retiring to Normandy, he became a professor at the Rouen School of Fine Arts in 1934 and was appointed public education officer. He lived for a time at the Hôtel du Méridien in Val-de-la-Haye where he remarried in February 1936. He worked with the publisher Duval in Elbeuf. He died at his home, at the Albert 1er hotel at no. 29 boulevard des Belges in Rouen.
