Description

Large painting representing Venus Anadyonemus which means "outflow of the waters" surrounded by two Giants, painted by Pôl Roux between 2007 and 2008 on cardboard fixed to a wooden frame. In the lower part we can see the conch of a shell in the image of Botticelli's Birth of Venus. Our painting reveals a surprise with another painting behind it, different but just as interesting. It reveals the author's frenzy to paint.
