Description

These solid oak chairs each feature a wide sash resting on two turned legs at the front and two whipped legs at the rear. Synonymous with solidity, this belt is squared from the inside. The traditional seat, made up of balls and straps, is covered with a matching fabric which will be covered with a fabric to suit your tastes and your interior. The backrest is turned and ventilated with turned bars in the lower part and canework in the upper part. The backrest is topped with a hand passage patterned with volutes and flares. These chairs will attract attention due to their small size and robustness.  Period: 2nd part 19th Century Excellent condition. Finish: Waxed Additional photos available by clicking on the following link: https://www.antiquites-lecomte.com/boutique/cha
