Description

Picturesque summer landscape Carl Ludwig Scheins 1808-1879 Carl Ludwig Scheins (born September 14, 1808 in Auchen; + October 23, 1879 in Düsseldorf) was a German landscape painter of the Düsseldorf school. Living and playing Carl Ludwig Scheins, who grew up in Auchen, moved to Düsseldorf at a young age, where he studied painting at the Düsseldorf Academy of Fine Arts. In the years 1830-1837 he specialized in landscape painting and followed the master class of Johann Wilhelm Schirmer.[1] He belongs to the circle of the Düsseldorf painting school, as mentioned in 1836 by the archivist and writer Johann Josef Scotti[2] and later by Wolfgang Müller von Königswinter in his Düsseldorf art album. Also designated as this effect by the artistic community. [3] In 1840, Carl

Ludwig Scheins received the Medal of Merit for Foreign Artists at an art exhibition in Antwerp. In his landscapes, it is clear that Scheins was meticulous about the design and seasonal appearance of nature. His representations of trees of all kinds are characterized in particular by precise, almost anatomical shapes. The depiction of individual buildings, cemeteries, ruins and other structures in the landscape shows Scheins' high degree of architectural sensitivity. His landscapes are complemented by people and animals who, as if by chance, carry out their specific activities at the time of the painting's creation and thus enliven the image without being significantly in the foreground.[4] Nevertheless, many of his works, notably the winter landscapes[5], exude a certain melancholy in their overall impression thanks to the clever use of various lighting elements, as described by Wolfgang Müller. A very picturesque and decorative painting! Highly rated in our Polish and foreign art auctions Opportunity!!!
