Description

Softness, finesse, sensitivity and femininity for this watercolor by the artist Marguerite Fabre active in the 19th century. The work in good condition is offered under glass, in a modern gilded frame which measures 58 cm by 46 cm and 37.5 cm by 26 cm at sight for the watercolor. It represents the famous Esmeralda, a key character in Victor Hugo's masterpiece, in the company of her goat, in the background of the cathedral. A pretty subject, a very beautiful technique for this watercolor which is difficult to take a photo of because of the glass, and much more beautiful in reality. It is signed and dated (18)91 lower right.
