Description

Straight-lined Italian sideboard from the 1960s on a geometric metal base. The body is veneered with oak, the panels of the front doors are designed with braided fine leather straps - a beautiful ajouré work. The base is made of rectangular iron rods and is gold-plated. The sideboard is characterised by its narrow body, which almost seems to float thanks to the metal base. The body rests on the gilded base, which is also geometrically designed - the whole object has a light-footed and modern look. Decorative rectangular brass keys complement the object as a restrained detail. There is a shelf on each side.
