Heroine of the play by Longus, a Greek writer from the second or third century, "Daphnis and Chloe", Chloe, a young shepherdess is in love with Daphnis, young goatherd. In the novel, she plays the syrinx. But a neoclassical adaptation has her playing the aulos, a double Greek flute. Born in Marseille, Auguste Henri Carli was a student of Émile Aldebert (1828-1924) then of Jules Cavellier (1814-1894). He is considered one of the masters of Marseille statuary of the 1900s.

Among his masterpieces, we will remember The
