Description

This important teak trunk is composed above, on the sides, the rear and on the front, of only solid planks without joints, assembled with dovetails, a guarantee of quality and solidity. The lid opens with a recessed brass "Boat" handle and locks with a functional original two-hook lock from the manufacturer "John Moreton & Company". This cover, mounted on two hinges, is held open by a brass compass called "knee". The interior offers a large storage space as well as a covered niche on the right side. The sides are fitted with folding handles with bronze stops for easy transport. This large trunk, which will offer good storage capacity, will appeal to lovers of antique furniture.  Period: Late 19th Century
Excellent condition. Waxed finish on hard base.
