Description

This trumeau mirror has a large glass in the lower part occupying approximately two thirds of the surface. The upper part is decorated with an oil painting on canvas representing a small fisherman's house built on a rock in the middle of a river and accessible by a wooden bridge. The landscape is mountainous and wooded. These elements are surrounded by a frame, in gilded, beaded and scalloped wood. The whole is highlighted by a white lacquered part. Decorative, our trumeau will easily find its place on the wall of your choice.  Period: Late 19th Century Excellent condition.
