

Very Rare Collector's Cabinet, Antwerp, 17th Century. Embroidered Panels.

5 500 EUR

Period : 17th century

Condition : Etat d'usage

Material : Ebony

Width : 40,5cm

Height : 42cm

Depth : 25,5cm

Description

Collector's Cabinet, Antwerp, 17th century. Ebony, wood (oak?) embroidered silk. Restored, with some imperfections. Two doors and top lid with locks. Small upper drawers and one large lower drawer. The choice of ebony and silk reflect the taste for exotic materials of the 17th century. Due to the fragility of silk, only very few cabinets of this type have survived. Central panel, embroidered with a tree motif using a particular relief embroidery technique that imitates the effect of the tree's foliage. Among the embroidered flowers there are carnations and tulips, very popular at the time, and also exotic birds, these are motifs that suggest an influence from the East and the art of the colonies. Behind the central door there are two small wooden drawers with thread. The lid opens in the upper

Dealer

Antichità di Alina

Peintures anciennes - Art nouveau - Art déco, micromosaïques, porcelaine

Mobile : +39 3383199131

Via Maggio 63 / rosso

Firenze 50100

part and is divided into three parts inside. there is a key. The state of conservation is average, but it has the advantage of not having undergone any changes or significant replacements, neither at the level of textile decoration nor at the level of cabinet making. Closed cabinetH 42cmWidth 40.5cmDepth 25.5 cmOpen cabinetH 61cmWidth 79cm