Description

COURBE (Charles) - The streets of Nancy from the 16th century to the present day. Nancy, Imprimerie Lorraine, 1885; in-8, 350 + 331 + 301 pp., modern half-bottle green calfskin bindings, smooth spines. The 3 volumes. Historical, moral, critical and satirical picture of the squares, gates, streets, dead ends and suburbs of Nancy. Research into the causes and origins of the terms that have been applied to them since the 16th century. One of the best works on the streets of Nancy to which we can possibly add the Badel published thirty years later and more recently the Robaux. Rare work and in satisfactory condition, despite a modern binding. Preface by Louis Lallement.
