Description

Beautiful pull-out sideboard from the second Renaissance Capped with its pedimented cornice, it opens with four doors and two drawers and rests on two legs turned at the front, straight behind Its sober and elegant decor is summed up by the rhythm of its cornices, bold moldings separating different levels of the furniture, its fine moldings, grooves, consoles carved with acanthus leaves resting on triglyphs. Has keys and locks. Even if walnut is sensitive and requires relatively many grafts, this beautiful sideboard is obviously authentic. French work from the second Renaissance. Around 1680.
