Description

Solid wood chair in Gothic style, manufactured at the end of the 19th century. Our seat has an openwork back with three warhead-shaped windows. The base has an H-shaped spacer. The seat cover is made of thick old brown leather which has several traces of use (sunstroke, probable traces of ink since this chair was used as an office chair.). The seat is firm, in fact the chair was originally presented with a wooden seat (still visible under the leather seat, see photo).
