lengths. In the south-east of Iran, around the city of Kerman, live the semi-nomads of the Afshar tribe, but also in the region of Shiraz.

Pierre Loti, passionate about orientalism, speaks of them in his writings in 1900 (Towards Ispahan) as marvels of colorful wool.

For a long time, these nomads lived in the northwest of Iran.

Part of the population moved to the southeast where carpet manufacturing represented an important economic sector since the mid-19th century. These rugs have shades of pink, red, ocher, many blues, purple and the majority of them have geometric patterns.

The most common pattern used is composed of a large central field with one or more square medallions.

Some decorations represent the skin of an animal stretched before being tanned.

What is typical of Afshar rugs is that they are relatively wide in relation to their length. Afshar carpets are also marketed under the name Sirdjan Carpets. A collector's item above all, this piece is a modern work of art that can be hung on the wall.

This rug has been professionally and eco-friendly cleaned.

Light traces of wear, which gives this type of ethnic rug its authentic character.

A beautiful piece due to its construction and the quality of the wool and the design.
