Description

Beautiful ink wash drawing from the Flemish school representing a tavern scene. It depicts the interior of a tavern, a place where people gathered to eat and drink. In the foreground, two men and a woman around a table, presumably trying to curry favor. A man sitting behind them seems to be observing the scene with a mischievous look. Behind them, several people are visible, including one at the bar, a lantern hanging on the wall with what appears to be sausage. Very beautiful achievement from the 19th century.
