

Pomdo Stone Character From Sierra Leone

190 EUR

Period : 20th century

Condition : Etat d'usage

Material : Stone

Description

Character sculpted in a stone measuring 10.5cm high Ritual object coming from Mali and more particularly from the Sierra Léone ethnic group A light patina tending to dark towards its base, marks of friction and shine caused by repeated handling We do not know much about the function of this object At first glance it looks like a pregnant woman holding her stomach in a sitting or squatting position giving birth (probably a connection with a ritual on fertility?) The features are crude, a headdress is drawn on his head, disproportionate hands and bouncing lower belly Interesting object, of curiosity free shipping worldwide
