Description

Also called "War and Peace", this clock, in gilded and patinated bronze, is a model by François Vion (model present in Versailles). Two putti surround the movement; one wearing helmet, spear and shield symbolizing the attributes of war; the other, Cupid's bow and arrows symbolizing love. The movement is surmounted by two doves of peace resting on a cloud. The base rests on four lion paw feet connected together by a drape. Enamelled dial, strike at the hours and half hours, pendulum movement in perfect working order. Very good quality of patina, gilding and carving. dimensions: height: 25.5cm width: 20cm depth: 10cm Period: mid 19th century.
