Description

Elegant gate forged in the 17th century, in perfect condition, ready to install. At the pediment marked with the number JD in the sketch of a symmetrical shell surrounded by crooks, a set of curved and counter-curved volutes rises towards a needle originally carrying a shaped piece of sheet metal. Its iron grille, arranged diagonally, crossing an intermediate rail with bulging holes, is decorated with flattened spheres adorned with flames. A portcullis of battle axes adorns its lower rail between each of its bars. The passage height is 268 cm, for a width of 185 cm. The section of the uprights is 32 mm<sup>2</sup>. The section of the bars is 24 mm<sup>2</sup>. You can visit our site: www.claudeaugustin.com
