Marne, a renowned collector and numismatist. Franck Cinot's two grandfathers: Charles François Cinot, owner, and François Sylvain Simon, owner, are both knights of the Legion of Honor. A Cinot also owned the Montgeoffroy farm in Maisoncelles en Brie in 1829. Frank Cinot debuted at the 1874 salon with the painting called "sin of envy". Until 1889 he exhibited landscapes, genre paintings, military subjects and seascapes, most of which were favorably appreciated by critics. He died in Crécy en Brie in his thirty-ninth year at the height of his talent. His wife Jeanne Alexandrine Emilia Barbeau d'Hauteclerc survives him. Although he died at a young age, he had nevertheless already acquired a certain notoriety as well as recognition by his peers during his lifetime so that "the chronicle of the arts and curiosity" March 8, 1890 and "the almanac of Seine-et-Marne » 1891 signals his death. We also find a notice about him in the "historical notice on Voulangis" by Th. Lhuillier, Meaux 1931. He is part of the circle of painters of the Vallée du Morin of which Amédée Servin was the initiator. These painters mainly frequented Voulangis, La Chapelle sur Crecy, Crecy en Brie and Villiers sur Morin as well as the small surrounding hamlets.
