inaugurated in 1957, this school was declared "the most beautiful school in France" by Raymond Lindon. Installed at 8, rue Quesney in Rouen<sup>3</sup>, this "little master in the clear and luminous lineage of the painters of the School of Rouen" was first appreciated by Rouen collectors and galleries, then in Paris: he joined the Pétridès gallery, where his works rub shoulders with those of Vlaminck, Foujita, Utrillo. He practiced lithography from the 1970s. He sold his works in Japan, through the Taménaga gallery. He is invited to numerous exhibitions in France (Paris, Rouen, Albi, Montpellier, Béziers, etc.) and abroad (Switzerland, Japan).
