Above All / Biscuit Centerpiece

Description

Magnificent biscuit centerpiece, from the 19th century, representing a captivating mythological scene. At the heart of this remarkable piece sits Bacchus as a child, crowned with bunches of grapes, symbol of fertility and abundance. He is majestically seated on a chariot drawn by panthers, evoking the power and exoticism of ancient imagination. Biscuit, a refined and delicate material, offers a smooth texture that highlights every detail of this sculpture. The delicate features of Bacchus's face, the strength of the panthers' muscles, and the minute details of the chariot, all demonstrate the artistic talent of the age. This large-scale piece is an exceptional example of 19th-century craftsmanship, where classical mythology was a constant source of inspiration for artists. The subject of Bacchus,
