Charles Camille Morin (1846 - 1919)

French painter in the wake of the Barbizon school, he painted landscapes of Ile-de-France, Brittany and the South. He exhibited at the Salon des Artistes français from 1889 to 1898, he became a member in 1897. From 1888 to 1890, he published chronicles and reports in the Journal des Artistes, some under the signature of Camille

Miron. He invented a system of models reproducing the movement of the characters, for painting in the studio in the absence of a model.
