and highly desirable feature of preserving its original vermeil, particularly well preserved throughout. The surface shows only the light scratches and wear consistent with age and use, without loss of uniformity or warmth of the gilding. The blades, tines and bowls are in excellent condition, with no deformation or functional alteration. Thanks to their well balanced proportions, these pieces may be used both as entremets flatware and, with great elegance, as hors d'oeuvre or first course cutlery, set alongside silver table flatware. ÉMILE PUIFORCAT Émile PUIFORCAT is the founder, in 1820, of the renowned Maison PUIFORCAT. He registers his maker's mark in 1857 and operates from 18 rue Chapon, in the 3rd arrondissement of Paris. He dies in 1883, though his mark continues to be used by his successors until 1927, when it is officially struck off. The talent of Jean PUIFORCAT, representative of the fourth generation and a leading figure of the Art Deco period, firmly places the house at the forefront of modern French silversmithing.
