Description

French chest of drawers Louis Philippe late 19th century. The wood is of the burl of walnut.

Walnut burl is flamed because it has many aesthetic designs. These drawings have complex, highly contrasting patterns and intricate veins on a naturally dark background of varying intensities.

This dresser is equipped with five drawers. The fifth drawer is a secret drawer hidden in the front of the furniture. The drawers are mounted dovetail ensuring perfect strength. The drawers can be opened daily and hold many sometimes heavy objects. They slide perfectly.

The back of the dresser has solid wood panels so very resistant.

The entrances are heart entrances. They are brass.
A key is used to pull the drawers.

The dresser is perfectly stable. It rests on low feet called "skate feet" that respect the shape of the furniture at the front and straight feet at the back.

The top of the dresser is a Saint Anne grey marble. The marble is in perfect condition. The edges are cut in corners. The molding is called "pair of buttocks".
