Description

Charming Mahogany Cooler Table.
beautiful mahogany cooler from the 19th century,
from the restoration period.

It consists of a black Belgian marble top, in which two zinc cooling pots are embedded.
the whole rests in a mahogany structure mounted with miter cuts.

the restoration style base is reminiscent of the Jacob style base.

the feet end in small bronze hooves.

two intermediate shelves are placed at different heights of the base.

under the tray thick enough to accommodate drinks to be refreshed in the zincs, there is a drawer running the entire length of the piece of furniture and mounted with small dovetails on an

very good state.

the two zinc cooling pots have been redone identically.

charming little piece of furniture, practical and easy to place, ideal at the end of the sofa or in the middle of the room because it is all-sided.

a timeless ideal for serving an aperitif or a bottle of champagne in the living room.
