Description

Biscuit subject representing "Hunting" model created by Étienne Maurice Falconet. Here Diana, Roman goddess of the hunt, is represented lying on an irregular rock base, in conversation with one of her nymphs. We can also see a quiver with arrows, a doe, a hunting dog and a putto. This model is the counterpart of the figurative group "Peach". This subject is signed by the Sèvres factory and is engraved with the letter "M". Note: Diane's big toes are a little grated (see photo). The rest is in perfect condition.
