Description

Charming little all-sided piece of furniture, made up of three identical drawers, each front of which has an Amboyna burl veneer, the perimeter of which is covered with a strip of miter-cut solid mahogany. Each drawer is pulled by small brass rings. Each side of the furniture has an attached half column in solid mahogany made up of 3 fixed grooves. In the lower part, we have a molding and a protruding baguette. The whole rests on four turned sheath legs, ending in a brass shoe. The sides of this small table are made up of two amboyna burl panels separated by a mahogany crosspiece. At the back, a single panel of amboyna burl. The top of this piece of furniture has a miter-cut mahogany frame, a large ebony fillet, with amboyna burl in the middle. Around it, a protruding wooden gallery follows
