This large oak piece of furniture is topped with gray marble. Manufactured in Paris from the Restoration period, around 1830. This type of large piece of furniture is typical of the layout of large castles in the 19th century for storing archive or rental management documents. It also had great success as notary or lawyer furniture. Our furniture differs from current productions by the importance of these non-standard dimensions. It is in excellent condition, the mahogany has been varnished with a pad by our cabinetmaker, the boxes are in excellent condition, they were remade in the 20th century, in the old style,
