Description

Beautiful half-moon console table in veneer and solid mahogany that can be transformed into a games table. This table has a three-element belt highlighted by a baguette under the crosspiece. This belt rests at the front on two curved feet tapering towards the bottom ending in lion claws as well as two butt feet at the rear. On top this table has a double top opening to form a round table which rests on a straight leg supporting a drawer. The top forming a bowl is dark in the center with green felt with braid around the edge. This table therefore has three functions: firstly a console, then a games table and finally a dining table (4/6 people) by adding protection (bulgomme, tablecloth)  Period: Early 19th Century Excellent condition. Waxed finish. Additional photos available by clicking on the
