Description

-Table mat, point tapestry technique (needle work, small point inclined to the right), France, late 19th century in 18th century style.

- This tapestry shows a symmetrical decoration composed of rich polychrome motifs (stylized plants and conch shells, serpentine shapes), exuberant vegetation of a very fanciful design which flourishes over the entire surface. The plain brown background, on which the patterns stand out, creates numerous color contrasts which serve the design and elegance of the curved shapes. The whole thing has a great decorative effect.

- This decor is called "bizarre", this term designates patterns imitating those of silks woven
