Description

Pair of Sicilian polychrome earthenware candlesticks from the 20th century; created by the artist Giacomo Alessi. This pair represents a couple in traditional Italian clothing. Very beautiful details in the costume and beautiful, very shiny enamel. An accident on the lady's left hand, three phalanges missing. Each of the characters rests on a beige-colored cylindrical base. Signature on the back on each base: ALESSI CALTAGIRONE. These pieces come from the artist's studio in Caltagirone in Sicily. The predominant colors are blue, green, yellow and ocher which are often found in the works of this creator. Artist information (Internet source): The famous ceramist Giacomo Alessi is deeply connected to the history and culture of his homeland, Sicily - a crossroads of peoples and cultures - and also influenced by avant-garde ideas linked to the time he spent in Milan. With his ceramics, he seeks a universal story that can speak to the world and to new generations. Clay is the canvas on which he paints the history of the Mediterranean. It is particularly important to him that the tradition of ceramic making in his town, Caltagirone - known as the city of ceramics and world famous for its tiled "scalinata" (staircase) - does not disappear or become characterized by poor quality souvenirs for tourists. This is why his work is the result of constant research into materials and techniques. Delivery: EUR15 for mainland France.
