Description

Large hunting trophy sculpture in carved wood from the Black Forest (Black Forest*) representing a small chamois and a partridge, suspended among a rifle, a game bag and some foliage, from the 19th century. This sculpture is in good condition. It is very decorative due to its large size. Please note: breaks and missing parts on one horn and one ear of the chamois (see red arrows), slight accidents in places (for example on the edge of a wing), old worm holes, some cracks, wear and tear, see photos (see red arrows).

* Black Forest or Black Forest Carved wooden objects from the Black Forest did not originate in Germany but were made in the Brienz region, Switzerland. The tradition of woodworking is ancestral in this region, the inhabitants perpetuate the practice of carved wood on the facades of
