the Opéra Garnier, etc. When it was founded, Jansen only resold existing furniture. It was in the early 1940s that the House opened its own workshops. In 1971, she joined the Leleu-Deshays house. But gradually Maison Jansen was no longer able to adapt to societal changes and changing tastes. She lost her clientele and closed in 1989. However, her creations are still very present on the international market and in auction rooms. Dimensions : Height 47cm Diameter 91cm Marble diameter: 78 cm
