Description

19th century Chinese porcelain vase with a yellow background decorated with a dense pattern of red geometric signs with three main tableaux painted inside with vases of flowers on a white background; three colored edges in shades of blue and green delimit the base, the neck and the upper edge of the vase. The neck is decorated with green and pink foliage. The original appearance of this vase consists of a multitude of round medallions with colorful naturalistic decorations. Under the base is a red ideogram. Inside the neck you can see a minimal crack covered by a subsequent painting which is still partially visible.
