Description

Extraordinary miniature garden furniture composed of an armchair, a chair and a pedestal table, from the late 19th century. Each piece is made of wrought iron, mounted by riveting and/or socketing. A weld however visible in a corner on the front of the chair where we see a lack of material and a restoration between the right front leg of the chair and its spacer. Remains of original polychromy, gray and beige. What does it matter! I want to say, for this extremely rare ensemble of around 150 years. We like it or not, collectors will understand... I present these objects to you in found condition. Note: interesting detail of the pressed sheet metal seats imitating the padded velvets very fashionable under Napoleon III. Dimensions of the pedestal table: diameter of the top: 20 cm, height:
