Description

From the Art Deco period around 1925 - 1930, splendid half-moon mirror in hammered wrought iron decorated with vines, bunches of grapes and leaves in the center and on each side with significant windings, typical of the period. Its rounding is also highlighted by smaller windings. Particularly rare, it has an additional ornamental pattern of the same decoration allowing it to camouflage the chain hook (14 cm x 11 cm). The chain is very long; it can be doubled as in the photos or not or even shortened, depending on your installation project. High quality hammering work varying depending on the location, significant relief of the ornamental motifs, a beautiful anthracite gray patina called "gun barrel" and proportions which allow it to be easily installed on a corridor wall or above a console...
