Netherlands, mid-18th century

Box diameter: 8.2 cm - Diameters of the bars: 2 cm to 2.2 cm - Weight of the bars: 11.1g - Gold: approximately 18 carats.

The duit is a Dutch coin dating from before the beginning of the 19th century. Thanks to very meticulous work, the six pieces have been carefully openworked. The set with its turned boxwood box, equipped with cells the size of each of the pieces and a small cardboard lid, seems to have been made with the intention of making it a precious gift probably intended for a character high-ranking officer of the United Provinces.
