Description

ILA (Industria Lombarda Arredamenti) teak and metal desk model Ss34, Italy, 1959

Beautiful Italian teak and metal desk produced by ILA (Industria Lombarda Arredi), model "Ss34" from 1959, equipped with a large work space.

ILA was an Italian company that, in the second half of the 20th century, devoted itself extensively to aesthetic research applied to the creation of furniture for work spaces. Therefore, this desk, originally designed for the office, is characterized by careful design and high quality construction. Today it can also be successfully placed in a home environment, thanks to the quality of materials and refined details.

A wide teak top with a pleasant natural grain rests on a light and unobtrusive structure that combines wood, metal, and cone-shaped brass finials. The light structure, where the two oblique uprights serve as a pleasing design element, is enhanced by a side drawer unit that increases the furniture's versatility.

In the 1959 catalog, the desk is identified with the code "Ss34."

Dimensions: 180x80x78h cm.
