Description

Circa 1780 France Precious and rare Indian quilted quilt printed on a wooden board dating from the Louis XVI period. Manufacture not identified but potentially coming from the Alsace mining basin, Germany, Switzerland. Printed percale available in reserve of purple seedlings on a white background. Borders with medallions of bucolic sketches on a brown chimney sweep background laden with generous bouquets of roses. In the corners four spandrels with mirrored medallions topped with plant friezes. On the reverse, a beige cotton percale (stains and dirt) Large diamond stitching and very light wadding. Note a small rust stain on the right side and consolidation of the Indian pattern in the borders by small colored patches (mainly in the medallions), this remains barely visible to the
