Description

Table in brushed steel after Osvaldo Borsani's T69 model. Brushed steel, varnished Carrara marble. Italy. Circa 1960-1970. h. 28,7 in. ; d. 43,3 in. This bouquet-shaped table, an anonymous variation on the famous "T69" table designed by Osvaldo Borsani and Eugenio Gerli in 1963, differs from the latter by its two-blade legs, which refines and aerates the shape of the table, crowned by a massive varnished Carrara marble top ; a more luxurious, less impersonal choice, compared to the traditional glass tabletops favored by Italian designers in the 1960s and 1970s.
