Description

Rare shepherdess armchair with windings from the Consulate period (late 18th century) in original condition with its crimson pink velvet carved with patterns around a lyre. Garnished with its original horsehair cushion, this remarkable seat is from the Consulate period: it has all the characteristics with its massive and at the same time elegant line, and a crazy presence. Its rich carved velvet ideally accompanies the opulent woodwork like a throne; of a beautiful "Seat", as comfortable as you wish, this remarkable piece, emerging from time, provokes a rare emotion and a real solemnity, we will forgive the agonies of time it has come to us without having been touched by anyone it has a crazy decorative presence... In addition it is generous and comfortable...
