Borghese" Gladiator

Bronze with brown patina on marble base

Dimensions : H. 36 ; W. 26 (cm.)

France, circa 1900

This sculpture was discovered during an excavation commissioned by Scipio Borghese in the first decade of the 17th century. The fragments were probably entrusted to the talented Nicolas Cordier for restoration. A Greek original with a signature on the trunk, it never ceased to fascinate admirers over the space of twenty years. Casts and copies were commissioned all over
