Description

Wall sconces attributed to André Pierre Léon Arbus, a prominent 20th-century French architect, decorator and sculptor. These wall lights are particularly notable for their elegant and refined design, typical of the Arbus style. Each wall lamp consists of a hand-shaped arm holding a lamp with an opaline glass shade. The golden elements add a touch of luxury and shine to the whole, highlighting the finesse of the sculptural details. Born in Toulouse on November 17, 1903 and died in Paris on December 12, 1969, Arbus came from an old family of Toulouse cabinetmakers. His mastery of wood and precious materials is reflected in these wall lights, skillfully combining functionality and aesthetics. The soft curves of the shade contrast harmoniously with the sculptural firmness of the hand, creating a
