finely moulded and carved. The gilding used here is typical of the late 19th century. This is a gilding process

It is a gilding process that combines an oily varnish with gold leaf on a support that has been painted in tones ranging from ochre to carmine, giving the gilding depth and relief.

This highly decorative pair is a fine alternative to the much rarer and more expensive 18th-century models.

and expensive. Very decorative, ideal for displaying porcelain, curiosities or silverware.
