Description

Serving table with an oblong-shaped top made up of four solid mahogany wood elements. The interior part is slightly quarter round. On the top and the edge of the brass thread inlays decorate this frame. In the center, we find a window. This first top rests on four concave legs tapering towards the top and thickening at the level of the lower shelf (of the same composition as the upper top). The second plate is embedded in the feet and connects them at their hump. The fronts of these curved legs are inlaid with brass threads. they become thinner in the lower part. *****
