Covered sugar bowl

Painted hard porcelain enhanced with gilding

Dimensions: D. 10,5 ; H. 20 (cm.)

Paris, circa 1810-1819

A rare tripod sugar bowl resting on zoomorphic feet. Decorated with a gilded foliate frieze separating the parts with a lilac background. This piece comes from a monogrammed service whose cups are all signed. This shaped piece rarely bears the vignette mark, but it is a model specific to Dagoty, see DAGOTY à Paris - La Manufacture de porcelaine de l'Impératrice - Par Régine

The Dagoty Manufactory

Founded by Pierre-Louis Dagoty and his brothers in 1798, this is a perfect example of the golden age of hard porcelain in Paris. Their work is recognisable by its use of "thick gold" and sumptuous painted decorations, often combined with areas left blank. Their success enabled them to become Manufacture de l'Impératrice from 1804.

Condition report :

Slight wear to the decoration, a hair that does not touch the decoration, a restoration to the socket (old) and to a foot (almost invisible). It is possible to have the above points professionally restored.
