Description

This magnificent antique wall mirror, from the early neoclassical period, stands out for its elegance and grandeur. Made of finely carved wood, it is enriched with lacquering and adorned with neoclassical decorations gilded with gold leaf. Its frame, enriched by two facing columns, reinforces its majestic and imposing character.

Originally designed to be installed above a fireplace, this mirror can now be adapted to more modern uses, bringing a touch of classic sophistication to any main room in your home. Despite its age, it is in good general and structural condition, although some small traces of aging are visible on the lacquering and gilding.

These slight imperfections do not detract from its
